

I am upset to learn that the FCC is considering implementing a proposal that would lessen the effectiveness of Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Since the implementation of this law, the pushy, impolite telemarketer calls have decreased 99.0 to 100%. Yes, that much! Previously, we often received two to three calls an evening( around 10-12 a week). Many times as late as 10pm. Weekends were no exception. Since this law has gone into effect, we can now enjoy our meals and our evenings, without the interruption of telemarketers who do not know the meaning of the word "no". Our privacy has been returned to us. This is especially important to us because of our health. When this age of "maturity" is reached, one deserves to be left alone. Please do not take back this freedom.
